Beverly Lake Jr., wants you to vote for Mel Broughton for Governor. Here's why:

I know Mel Broughton to be a true North Carolina Democrat within the best tradition and meaning of that term. Because he is a North Carolina Democrat, and dedicated to true progress and freedom, I know that, like his father, Mel Broughton will go down in history as one of our greatest governors.

I knew Mel Broughton as a student at Wake Forest College. At this time I was about nine years old and he was living at our home while he went to school. My earliest recollection of Mel, as a boy at this age, was seeing him walk up the steps in our front hall to the room up-stairs that later became my room. Mel actually lived at our home on two occasions while he was a student at Wake Forest.

Since August of 1960, when I began the practice of law, I have known Mel Broughton as a fellow member of the Wake County Bar. In that capacity I know Mel Broughton as a most able and dedicated lawyer and public servant. I have seen him and the skillful manner in which he handles the causes of his clients in the day to day practice of the law. He is so highly regarded as a lawyer that he has frequently been called upon to represent the State of North Carolina and all her people. While his clientele has included the State of North Carolina he has always believed in the promise that every man regardless of his station in life is entitled to the very best representation, and Mel Broughton's practice of the law has followed that principle.

I know Mel Broughton as a completely warm and open individual, a man who is understanding and approachable on any problem. I know Mel to be a man who will not change in this regard when he becomes Governor, and I venture to say that as Governor, Mel Broughton will welcome the opportunity to sit down and talk to any man about any problem confronting North Carolina.

It is for these reasons and because of these beliefs that I wholeheartedly endorse the candidacy of Melville Broughton for the Governorship of North Carolina.
