THE PEOPLE NOT IN THE AIR.

Today will probably end the content proceedings now in progress, both in the United States court and also before the supreme court of the State. These proceedings have attracted more or less attention from every quarter of the State, and will continue to do so for weeks to come. This disturbance will not be without its good lessons, as well as its annoying and its harmful tendencies.

The frequency of contempt proceedings is at least suggestive that this emergency is too much relied upon and too frequently resorted to by the only men who are permitted to use it at all. And with all, there is evidently an attempt to stretch contempt violations beyond what it was intended they should comprehend. The putting to right of these errors, will be some compensation for the worry and anxiety these investigations have caused. It will be a sad day in the history of this State, when the average newspaper man and the average lawyer must be forced to accord respectful recognition of our courts. We do not expect to see it, for the present trouble we deem accidental rather than the indication of a real condition. The most serious suggestion liable to go out to the people is, that after all, men do not stand upon the same footing before the law, and that rewards and punishments are not distributed with absolute consistency and impartiality.

And we turn aside here to say, that nothing could be so deplorable, so certain to destroy respect for the courts as the prevalence of this idea. And yet, how are we to escape it? Here is a poor fellow from the country sweating in his jeans, in attendance on the Federal court. He has violated the revenue law by making or selling some blockade whiskey. He gets his sentence and is placed, by order of the court, in the hands of the marshal. There is just one of two things this poor fellow must do—pay his fine or go to jail. And nobody blames the court for this; it's the only course to pursue in order to maintain order and deter violators of the law. But why put one man in the inner prison while another is simply detained in an elegant hotel with every comfort and luxury that money could provide? There is no blame to attach to the prisoner who receives this distinguished attention, for he boldly declared his position, and was ready to take the consequences, and that is the utmost to be expected of him.

Now we submit that in the interest of simple justice, not only in relation to the prisoner, but for the preservation of the honor and good name of the court, that the law ought either to have been executed or the prisoner so related to it, as not to defy the decrees of the court. This, as we have before stated, is the most serious consequence connected with this whole transaction. Conservative men and conservative papers will be found standing for the honor and dignity of every court, whether it be State or United States, whose decrees are just and whose judgments are consistent and fair. But the same influences will promptly and emphatically turn their backs upon any whose ministrations seem to fall below this high standard.

The people, the conservative think men, will make no "lump sum" disposition of these matters which are now agitating the public mind. The cool, calm, second thought is certain to appear. They will not justify any extraordinary effort on the part of anybody to place the State's property in the hands of a receiver. But, on the other hand, they will never let up till the unsuccessful management of the State is abandoned, and the road placed in the hands of competent business men.

And it's just so in regard to the other matters, now uppermost in the minds of the people. The right jury will be chosen, and they will sit together and a true verdict will be rendered.

Mr. Daniels will do the State a valuable service, if as a result of this trial we shall get, in a clear and unmistakable manner, just what are the limitations of the press toward the judiciary. It has been frequently stated within the past few days that the judicial department of the government was especially liable to get into trouble. However this may be, we suspect these strained relations arise for the most part because, when the judge is of one political faith, and the newspaper of an opposite one.

There will be something going on in the reprint department if certain papers will only print the regulation stuff. On the other hand, if every editor in the State would, after informing himself the best possible, write out his own plain, honest convictions, never expecting to see what he said reprinted, it would go a long way toward restoring quiet and good feeling where there is now envy and strife.

A TAME EFFORT.

The President's speech at Gettysburg on the 30th of May was rather a tame document. We kept it under lock and key for nearly a week before it was released and expected it to roar when let loose, but it did not. This historic place, with the memories of the past, have been the inspiration for some utterances which will survive time. But the late effort of the President will not rank with these.

People who have seen the Yarboro House under its new management will find their grief of Mr. Daniels' confinement there somewhat mollified.

Ocean City, N. J., June 3.—It is feared that two men and a boy, who left Ocean City last Thursday, bound for Holly Beach, N. J., in a small boat, have been drowned. The boat was found bottom upward near Holly Beach when last seen from Lewes, Delaware, saving station.

ECZEMA SETS THE SKIN ON FIRE.

No disease causes so much bodily discomfort, or itches, burns and stings like Eczema. It begins often with a slight redness of the skin, followed by pustules or blisters from which a gummy, sticky fluid oozes, which dries and scales off or forms bad looking sores and scabs. It appears on different parts of the body, but oftenest upon the back, arms, hands, legs and face, and is a veritable torment at times, especially at night or when overheated.

The cause of Eczema is a too acid condition of the blood. The terrifying itching and burning are produced by the overflow through the glands and pores of the skin of the fiery poisons with which the blood-current is overloaded. While external applications, such as washes, soaps, salves and powders are soothing and cooling, they do not enter into the blood itself or touch the real cause of the disease, but S. S. S. does, and purifies, enriches, and strengthens the thin acid blood and cleanses the general system, when the skin clears off and Eczema and all its terrifying symptoms disappear. Book on the Skin and its diseases free. No charge for medical advice.
